Call For Applications

2022 Seminar on Teaching and Learning in Philosophy

July 28-30

Location: Otterbein University, Westerville, OH
Eligibility: Current Graduate Students or Recent (2020 forward) PhDs
Application Deadline: June 1, 2022
Application: https://bsu.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_dheolqrud2ti9Aa

Through readings and interactive experiences, participants reflect with others to discern how to strengthen their pedagogical choices. Participants study how to identify and select challenging and transformative learning goals and, by understanding the principles of integrated course design, examine how to guide students to the successful achievement of these goals. Topics include preparing to teach (for example, syllabus design), developing learning-centered philosophy classes, using traditional and non-traditional methods of assessment, and engaging in the scholarship of teaching and learning. The friendships and collegial relationships built here can last a lifetime.

Attendance

This is a face-to-face only experience, in conjunction with the American Association of Philosophy Teachers Biennial Conference. Participants are required to attend all sessions, which are four hours each morning, July 28-30. A voluntary social gathering will take place on the evening of July 27.

Seminar Facilitators

Stephen Bloch-Schulman, David W. Concepción (lead), Sarah Donovan, Jerry Green, and Mo Janzen

Fees & Waivers

Participants are encouraged to attend AAPT Conference sessions in the afternoons and evenings. The registration fee for the AAPT conference is waived for seminar participants. A small stipend (approx. $300) to partially offset room, board, and travel expenses will also be provided.
