

Teaching and Learning

CFP: Session Topics and Facilitators in the AAPT Talking/Teaching Series

What is the Talking/Teaching weekly series: One hour, facilitator led conversations about a topic in teaching philosophy. No advance preparation or reservation required of participants.

What does the facilitator do: Facilitators give a brief introduction to a pedagogical concept or topic that is chosen in advance. The facilitator does not give a long presentation or host a Q and A. Rather, the facilitator spends 5-10 minutes providing a concise summary of their thinking on the topic they have chosen, and enough context and good questions to start and sustain a conversation.

Who can Apply and When: Anyone with experience teaching philosophy and facilitating conversations. Proposals accepted on a rolling basis starting summer 2022 and ending when all spots are filled.

- Final deadline for proposals for the Fall sessions is September 1, 2022.
- Final deadline for proposals for the Spring sessions is January 7, 2023.

Proposal Process: Send an email to sdonovan@wagner.edu, subject heading Talking/Teaching, with the following information:

1. Name and Institution
2. Title and topic
3. Brief paragraph with a vision for the framing of the conversation
4. A list of top three sources
5. Top three dates and times that work for you (see below for choices)

Dates for fall 2022 and spring 2023: Talking/Teaching is always scheduled on a Monday and alternates between noon and 3pm EST as a start time (schedule below).

Fall 2022: 10/3 (noon), 10/10 (3pm), 10/17 (noon), 10/24 (3pm), 10/31 (noon), 11/7 (3pm), 11/14 (noon), 11/21 (3pm), 11/28 (noon), 12/5 (3pm)

Spring 2023: 2/6 (noon), 2/13 (3pm), 2/20 (noon), 2/27 (3pm), 3/6 (noon), 3/13 (3pm), 3/20 (noon), 3/27 (3pm), 4/3 (noon), 4/10 (3pm)