On the Trip

Weather and unrest: the anxious parent students... keeping track and keeping safe; set rules and follow them

Dealing with guides and why it can be useful to have them

dealing with problem students:
know your legal rights
On the Trip (cont.)

meals- why it is worth not including them

on-site activities, learning plans, free time

the code of conduct agreement Essential documents and tools

- The name and number of the campus person to contact for problems Global Studies Office person, dean)
- Contact information for all students
- Copies of full itinerary as scheduled with names of drivers and guides, if included
- Students should have their student ID cards
- A letter from your dean on letterhead which indicates that you are part of an educational tour
- A global cell phone is useful if it can be arranged
How does travel enrich the educative experience of our students?
How does travel enrich the educative experience of our students?

Some suggestions:
How does travel enrich the educative experience of our students?

Some suggestions:

• Becoming a citizen of the world-promoting cosmopolitanism. Studying the great book of the world: people/culture/nature
How does travel enrich the educative experience of our students?

Some suggestions:

● Becoming a citizen of the world-promoting cosmopolitanism.
   Studying the great book of the world: people/culture/nature
● See Alain de Botton’s The Art of Travel